IN THE ABSTRACT

Please amend the Abstract as follows.

The invention concerns an integrated monolithic electronic component for connection to a telecommunications network and data exchange in accordance with a part at least a part of the Internet protocols, eharacterized in that said wherein the component includes an architecture of the DSP (Digital Signal Processor) type.